DENY RUMORS OF SILVER LAKE BANK BANDITS' CAPTURE

Reports Are Without Foundation, Cashier Erik Hanson Says

Rumors afloat here during the last few days to the effect that the bandits who held up and robbed the Silver Lake State bank on the morning of November 6 had been captured and lodged in jail at Burlington or Kenosha today were emphatically denied by Eric Hanson, cashier of the bank, and his assistant, Clifford L. Janke.

"The rumors have been persistent, but they are entirely without foundation so far as we know," Mr. Hanson declared. "We have received many inquiries by telephone regarding the rumor, but of course we have been unable to give any information whatever. Our insurance company paid us the loss, amounting to $2,786.50, the day following the robbery, and it was the company which took up the task of capturing the bandits. Secret service men are working on the case, but thus far nothing has been reported to us."

Aside from the fact that one of the bandits appeared to have worn spectacles, deduced from the fact that a chain hung from his pocket, neither Hanson nor Janke were able to give any descriptions that might lead to the identification of the two holdup men.

Legion Men Plan to Top All Previous Membership Records

The Antioch American Legion has over 40 paid members for the ensuing year, and officers of the post declare prospects appear bright for topping all previous membership records in 1931. This will be in line with the wishes of District Commander Kapschul who has placed the membership mark for the local post so high that every ex-service man in the community will have to belong in order to bring the membership to the 100 per cent mark.

The regular meeting of the post will be held Thursday night at the village hall. The business session will be followed by the serving of refreshments.

All Legion men are asked to attend the meeting and assist Commander Wadsworth to get the new year going smoothly.

The Eighth District regular monthly meeting will be held at Grayslake Friday night of this week. Some very important business is to come before the meeting.

L. FORBRICK AGAIN WINS INTRAMURAL GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Louis Forbrick, Antioch, a Senior at the University of Chicago, and his fraternity brother, Trusten Lee, of the Phi Delta Theta, recently repeated their performance of last spring by winning the Intramural golf championship of the University for the fall quarter. They were first out of a field of eight qualifying teams, and won three and two from their nearest opponents.

Mauermann of Channel Lake and Chicago was also a member of one of the qualifying teams.

In addition to being outstanding in the athletic field, Louis Forbrick is one of the chief members on the staff of the Daily Maroon, the University paper.

MOOSE LODGE TO HOLD CARD PARTY

Sponsors of the proposed Moose Lodge will hold a public card party at the Danish hall, Tuesday evening, Nov. 25. Arrangements have also been made for dancing, and the popular "Man in the Moon," former announcer over WJJD, Mooseheart, will entertain.

As a special attraction of the evening, turkeys will be given away.

The Moose Lodge has developed with startling rapidity, now boasting above the 50 necessary to secure a charter, over 100 signed to become members. It is hoped by those organizing the Lodge that 200 members will have been signed by November 30, the date set for the initiation. The aim at present is to make the Lodge the largest in Antioch.

Chindblom Wins Over Hesse by 2,000 Votes, Recheck Indicates

Doubt over the outcome of the election for congressman from this district is ended, Carl R. Chindblom being the victor by over 2000 votes, according to figures now available before the Cook county election board.

Although the final tabulations in the recount of two doubtful precincts are not yet known, Chindblom's majority of 2,388 votes is sufficient to insure his election, even if these two precincts should count up strongly for his democratic opponent, John E. Hesse. However, it is expected that Chindblom's gain will be increased when the balloting results of the two remaining precincts are established.

Chindblom was elected as congressman for this Tenth district, which he has represented since 1918, largely through the Republican party of Lake of Lake County, one of the few which remained true to the G. O. P. ranks.

The vote at present stands, 72,829 for Chindblom and 70,441 for Hesse.

ANTIOCH FUTURE FARMERS PURCHASE PURE BRED STOCK

Interest in pure bred dairy herds is growing as evidenced by students of Vocational Agriculture at the Antioch High School, who have purchased several animals this fall. Some have been bought to start the building of a pure bred herd and others to continue the work of building started in the past few years.

Lloyd Atwell of Lake Villa has added his fourth Guernsey heifer to his small herd of pure breeds. Lloyd Barnstable has purchased a Guernsey cow and heifer calf making six pure bred animals for him. Harold Sheen of Salem recently purchased a Brown Swiss heifer from Stephens Bros. of Wadsworth, Ill. Clarence Galger of Lake Villa, Kenneth Hills and Russell Hunter of Antioch purchased Brown Swiss heifers from John Kaderabek of Nashota, Wis., recently. Considerable interest in Brown Swiss heifers have been introduced through the Agriculture Department during past two years.

Chorus of Fifty to Sing at H. S. Friday Night

Antioch is to be favored with a musical program of unusual merit on Friday evening, when a large Chorus Choir of fifty voices from the First Baptist church of Waukegan present a concert at the high school auditorium at 8:00 o'clock.

This choir is under the direction of Professor Charles W. Mountain who is vocal teacher in Waukegan and who has a vocal class in Antioch. The program will consist of both sacred and secular music.

The feature musical number on the program will be a short Cantata "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast", by Colbridge-Taylor, which contains Indian themes of great beauty. One of the most beautiful tenor solos ever written will be sung by Prof. Mountain, who for a number of years was head of the Conservatory of Music at Parsons College of Fairfield, Iowa, and later held the same position at Iowa Wesleyan college. The public is invited to attend this musical program. There will be no admission charge, but an offering will be taken to defray expenses.

Mrs. Corrin Injured When Auto Collides With Horse Sunday

Mrs. Richard Corrin sustained two broken ribs and face cuts late Sunday evening when the car in which she was riding collided with a horse on the road north of Millburn.

Her husband, who was driving, stated that the impact with the horse, which was owned by J. S. Denman, knocked the car into the ditch, breaking the glass. Mrs. Corrin was so forcibly thrown in the car that two ribs were broken. Mrs. Corrin's injuries were not serious, and today she was reported to be recovering rapidly.

Mrs. John Dreyfuss, Mrs. John Claxton and Mrs. Henry Foss and son spent Wednesday with Mrs. George Garland.

Ned Bates was married to Miss Sara Gove of Chicago, on Friday, November 7th.

LIBRARY IS MOVED TO GRADE SCHOOL

Was Established 8 Years Ago by the Woman's Club

Tuesday was "moving day" for the Antioch Public Library. Since its establishment eight years ago by the Woman's club it has been housed in the village hall, but some time ago, these small quarters proved inadequate and prevented further expansion. Two years ago a library tax was voted by the village and this month this fund became available.

The Board of the Antioch Grade school has graciously donated the use of a vacant room for the library's use. This room is situated on the east side of the new building, and when that structure is completed will be used as the auditorium stage. It is admirably located, well lighted and ventilated, and with the new furnishings presents a very pleasing appearance.

The Library Board has purchased shelving, librarian's desk and chair, reading table, chairs, book racks and other necessities for equipment.

For the past few years, the library has been in charge of Miss Mary Stanley. Miss Stanley gives careful attention to the selection of books for the younger group of readers and also assists the teachers of both grade and high school classes in providing the books prescribed by their various courses. Beginning with Friday, Nov. 21, the library will be open each Tuesday and Friday from 9:30 until 5:30 p. m. It is possible that a little later the board can arrange to open the room one evening each week for the especial benefit of adult readers.

The library has been of great service to the community, and its patronage is proof of that statement. As it was necessary to spend almost the entire revenue for this year for equipment and running expenses, the Board will not be able to purchase new books, so if any friend has a good book which he feels he can spare from his personal library the gift would be greatly appreciated. The librarian particularly asks for juvenile literature and modern fiction. Books by Zane Grey, Curwood and Will James are in most demand. Any contribution may be sent directly to the library or to any member of the Board.

The Library Committee is comprised of Elmer E. Brook, Frank R. King, Dr. R. D. Williams, Mrs. John Brogan, Mrs. O. C. Mathews and Mrs. W. W. Warriner.

Ben Miller Is Dady's Choice for Master-in- -Chancery, Is Report

Attorney Benjamin H. Miller of Libertyville, will become master-in-chancery to succeed Judge-Elect Ralph Dady on December 1, according to press reports stated to emanate from authoritative sources. Judge Dady has indicated, it is said, that Attorney Miller is to be his choice for the post he vacates to take the circuit bench, but no official announcement has been made.

Attorney Miller has been a practicing attorney in Lake county for 30 years, and has been a resident of Libertyville for 50 years. He is vice-chairman of the Lake county was an active worker for his party's candidates in the primary and election campaigns. He was one of the leading supporters of Ralph Dady during the latter's campaign for circuit judge.

Miller expects to move his law office to Waukegan and will occupy the rooms in the First National Bank building, now used by the firm of Edwards & Dady. When Judge Dady takes the bench, a new law partnership is imminent—that of Edwards & Miller, it is reported.

Religious Education
Conference Held at the
M. E. Church Saturday

The Conference on Christian Education of the Methodist Episcopal churches of the Chicago Northern District was held at the M. E. church Saturday. Delegates from Lake and McHenry counties attended.

The problems of rural churches were discussed by Dr. Albert Mann of the Garrett Biblical Institute at Evanston, Dr. Audrey Moore, of Chicago, and Miss Marie Marvel, director of religious education.

The delegates were served a dinner at the church at noon.

Antioch Legion Auxiliary Is Host to 8th District

Antioch Legion Auxiliary chapter was the host to officers of the various units in the eighth district last evening. Fourteen officers, including those of Antioch, were present at the chicken dinner provided in Somerville's Restaurant. The State Rehabilitation officer, Miss Miller, of Chicago, Mrs. Pantelas of the 40 and 8, Waukegan, and Mrs. Lucy Brown, district director of Lake Forest, and Mrs. Nora McShane, Secretary-Treasurer, were out-of-town guests at the dinner. Miss Miller, Mrs. Pantelas and Mrs. Brown spoke later at the meeting held in the Guild hall at which 160 were present. Mrs. Brown gave a report of the State as well as the National Convention.

The principal speaker of the evening was Bradford West, prominent Lake County Legionnaire of Waukegan, who explained the work of the American Legion for poor, who have served in the World War. Charles Kapachul, commander of the American Legion 8th district also spoke. An alternate district director, Mrs. Grace Tibbals of Waukegan, was elected.

Others who took part in the program were: Mrs. Bohi and her sister, Miss Haines, and Miss Meyer who played the "Holy City," a pantomime; Henry Reimke, who entertained with accordian solos; and Mary Lou Sibley who performed a piano solo. A pumpkin pie lunch was served.

Waukegan was awarded the attendance prize, but every unit of the district was represented.

New Big Gas Main to Supply Lake Towns

The combined gas generating and holder capacity of the entire Chicago area was made available to Lake Villa, Pistakee Bay and other North Shore communities served by the Public Service company of Northern Illinois by the completion of a 48-inch gas main connecting that Company's gas station at Niles Center with the North Shore holder of The Peoples Gas, Light and Coke Company, of Chicago, according to a recent announcement.

Increased demand for gas in the North Shore territory and anticipated future demand, caused principally by growth of this area and increased use of the fuel for house heating and other purposes, necessitated the new interconnection, officials of the Public Service company say. The new connection provides both for additional supply and emergency service and supplements the connection which has been existent for a number of years between the company's Evanston system and the mains of the Chicago gas company. It will assure adequate capacity to serve the communities affected for many years to come, it is believed.

Large future capacity is provided for by the use of new type couplings for pipe joints. Instead of employing the lead joints used almost universally for this purpose, enabling the main to carry considerably higher pressure than lead joint will allow. The main was designed for 25 pounds pressure, although the present operating pressure will be only about five pounds. This will mean that when the operating pressure is raised a large amount of additional capacity will be realized.

Frank Clower, 56, former proprietor of the Last Chance Inn on the state line, was acquitted of the murder of Eugene Coverston, Waukegan, in the Kenosha circuit court room, Friday morning.

Clower took the stand in his own defense, and pleaded that he shot in self defense. On this ground, a verdict of not guilty was returned.

Eugene Coverston was murdered on July 29 at Clower's Inn, following a quarrel, in which Coverston's brother, Floyd, also took part. The jury debated for hours Thursday evening, and asked to have Floyd Coverston's testimony repeated.

Mrs. Josephine Leisner, and Gus Holmes of Kenosha, and Lawson Hall, Zion City, defense witnesses who had been jailed Thursday morning on possible charges of perjury, were released that evening.

ANTIOCH FIREMEN ASKED TO ATTEND MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

Members of the Antioch Volunteer Fire department are asked to attend the regular meeting of that body at the Village hall next Tuesday night. Due to the fact that the last two meetings were interrupted by other business, it is very important that all members be in attendance Tuesday evening. Some very important business is to come before the firemen at that time.

GOV. EMMERSON WILL DEDICATE ROUTE 173 IN HARVARD DEC. 8

Floats Will Be Featured in Parade; Only 700 Banquet
Reservations

Louis L. Emmerson, governor of Illinois, has accepted the invitation of the Harvard Chamber of Commerce to dedicate route 173, Harvard to Richmond, which has been definitely set for Monday, Dec. 8. H. H. Cleaveland, director of public works and buildings, and Frank T. Sheets, state superintendent of highways, have also accepted an invitation and will participate in the dedication event.

Harvard is about midway between Zion City and the Rockton intersection with Illinois Route 2, which mark the extremities of Route 173, commonly referred to as the Zion City-Rockford highway. Thus it was that the Harvard Chamber of Commerce feel that it is proper that that city should sponsor the dedication of the public improvement.

Lake County Gap Lags
With completion and opening to traffic of the stretch from Richmond to Rockton, and the Zion City-Rosecrans section about all that remains to complete this important highway is the Rosecrans-Richmond section, which has been held up on account of right-of-way difficulties, especially in the lake district.

One of the features of the dedication ceremony Dec. 8, will be two parades, one to start from Richmond and one from Caledonia in Boone county. These will proceed to and through Harvard. Each town along the route is being asked to furnish one or more floats to represent it. It is also planned to have several bands in the Rosecrans-Richmond section, which has been held up on account of right-of-way difficulties, especially in the lake district.

Banquet Reservations
The day has been designed as "Saunders Day" to honor Eugene Saunders, postmaster and president of the Chamber of Commerce, who has, by his untiring efforts, made the new highway possible. Mr. Saunders and his committee of highway boosters are to be guests of honor at a banquet to be held at the local community high school auditorium at 6:30 o'clock on dedication day. State officials will also be present. The banquet is open to the public, although reservations to be made through the C. of C. are limited to 700.

A delegation for Harvard visited Antioch today, bringing news of the Governor's acceptance of the invitation to dedicate the route, and tickets for banquet reservations were left with Frank R. King at King's drug store, and with S. M. Walence, commander of the local American Legion post. Those who plan to attend should apply for reservations immediately.

Listed among the coming attractions for Antioch is the appearance of J. B. Rotnour and his popular players who have announced that they will open the season at the Crystal theatre on Tuesday night, December 9. The company has ten players who have been carefully selected by "J. B." himself, and he assures his friends in Antioch and vicinity that is good in clean-cut theatrical and "vodivil."

CRUSADER TO SPEAK IN KENOSHA TODAY

The "Crusader" who has made himself very well known through this territory by his recent speeches will speak before the business men of Kenosha this noon, to the Kenosha Woman's club in the afternoon, before the general public at night. He spoke at Fox Lake High school Tuesday evening of last week to a record breaking crowd. The High school also provided an attraction.

DRIVERS' LICENSE LAW AGITATED

Vigorous campaigns for adoption of the Automobile Drivers' License Law for adoption of the Automobile laws lack "teeth," an effort will be made to remodel them to conform with the standard ordinance recommended by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety.

Twelve states now have drivers' license laws and all of them have experienced a downward accident trend. According to a survey made by the National Safety Council, there have been 29 per cent fewer fatalities since the adoption of the laws than there would have been had these 12 states had the same percentage increase as the non-license states. This amounts to a saving of thousands of lives annually.

Many safety authorities believe such a law is the most important single step toward reducing accidents. No careful driver need fear it. Its purpose is to weed out the unfit, the negligent, the reckless and the "accident repeaters" and to prevent beginners from driving until they are competent to handle a car.

An overwhelming majority of motorists are responsible and competent. But the small minority which is careless and incompetent, has given us the greatest accident toll in the world. They are a menace to the lives and property of all other drivers. They must be barred from the public highways.

ONE AUTOIST IN EVERY 28 "GETS" HIS MAN

Automobile accidents numbered approximately 930,000 in 1930. There were 31,000 fatalities as a result of these accidents.

There are just about 26,000,000 drivers in the United States. This means that one driver out of every 28 "gets his man" in one way or another. He either kills him or cripples him.

These staggering figures furnish ample inspiration for the proposed drivers' license law which is scheduled to come up before the next legislature. It is a safety measure that will effectively reduce the motor vehicle tragedies on our highways.

There is nothing experimental about the efficient functioning of a drivers' license law providing it is a standard law with "teeth" in it. In a recent study of our national experience with such laws the National Safety Council found that in nine states where the law has been adopted since 1916, there have been 29 per cent fewer fatalities than there would have been had these states had the same increase which the non-license states had.

Authorities claim that 90 per cent of all accidents can be avoided. If this is true generally it is certainly true in the motor vehicle field. The fact that drivers are not careful is evident in this appalling and ever-growing list of tragedies.

One of the most effective ways to save lives and prevent injuries on our highways is to adopt a drivers' license law patterned after those laws which have proved their efficiency in other states during recent years.

"THE OTHER FELLOW"

Bill Bone, author of the little book, "Bone Yard Philosophy," has written a very suggestive article concerning our indebtedness to "The Other Fellow" who, in fact, has always played the most important role in life no matter how great our achievements may have been. He said, "The other fellow, it seems, has anticipated my every desire, for every way I turn he greets me with some modern convenience that makes life more livable. I've spent no time nor money discovering electricity, the other fellow did it for me. In the modern home I find a bathtub, hot water, soap, towels, a safety razor, tooth brush, fresh laundry all pressed and cleaned awaiting my pleasure—thanks to the thoughtfulness of the other fellow. Preparing for a journey I go to the telephone, which, by the way was invented for my use by another fellow, get in connection with the taxi office, which was established by another fellow, who sends another fellow to take me to the station, where another fellow has backed the train up in front of me to where another fellow shouts "all aboard."

We may even belong to the social elite—the exclusive set, but that other fellow—that poor hungry inventor has made possible everything you own and while we cannot all be social equals, we can all respect the other fellow, no matter what his calling. Rich or poor, young or old, high or low, we all constitute the individual links in the endless chain of human service.

The Boneyard Philosopher says further, "Mr. Banker, Mr. Merchant, Mr. Farmer, Mr. Whoever You May Be, who keeps your business going but the other fellow? He is your only customer, and without him you would close your doors. Mr. Politician, the other fellow put you in office—do not forget your lowly position, you are his servant, not his master. Mr. Lawyer, you are only the hired man in the case, the other fellow is the paymaster. Mr. Doctor, you have accomplished much, but you could not exist without the other fellow. Mr. Preacher, you are the shepherd of the flock. I honor your calling, but it is the lost sheep that keep you calling. Mr. Radio Speaker and Entertainer, be careful of your ego, the other fellow who is listening in can shut you up any time you swell up. Science has, at last, found a way to

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Mortals and Immortals" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 16.

The Golden Text was, "As we have borne the image of the earthly, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly" (1. Cor. 15:49).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. Set your affections on things above, not on things on the earth. For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God" (Colossians 3: 1-3).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When understanding changes the standpoints of life and intelligence from a material to a spiritual basis, we shall gain the reality of life, the control of soul over sense, and we shall perceive Christianity, or Truth, in its divine Principle" (p. 322).

Means in Germany"

(The following talk was delivered before the High school students on Armistice Day by Hans von Holwede, who gives lessons on orchestra instruments at the High school. Complying with the request of many of the students, we are publishing the speech. Ed. note.)

"I feel greatly honored to have been invited to speak to you on this occasion, particularly realizing that I was an enemy of your country in that great war, which the Armistice brought to a close twelve years ago today. The Germans knew that America completely defeated them, yet, instead of hating their conquerors, they have learned to respect, and more, to admire this great American Nation. When the American army of occupation entered into Germany, strange as it may seem, it was welcomed due to the courteous treatment of our soldiers, resulting in the renewed friendship of the two peoples. It was proven that the American government had fought, not for material gain, but for the great ideals of democracy.

The loyal support of the American people to their government which fought against the Imperial government of Germany proved not to be a cause for continued hate. The German people welcomed the Reformer, hence the admirable friendship of these two nations.

The 11th of November, 1918 was a glorious, sunny day, but it found me in the hospital with an aching body, which had been shot 16 times. I had been prepared for an end, and end, even my own, for endurance of the inhuman strain of the war times much longer seemed impossible. An end had to come. But was that not said many times before, years ago? Was not every German mother convinced through her prayers that an end must be in sight? Every soldier at the front was ready to bring it to a close, even at a loss. However, the unseen power of the tradition of the former German triumphs gave us strength and put new endurance into our tired scar-marked bodies.

NEEDS FOR RED CROSS SERVICE ON INCREASE, SAYS CHAIRMAN PAYNE

Disaster Relief and Service to War Veterans Make Heavy Demands—First Aid on Highways New Plan.

Demands upon the public services that the American Red Cross is organized to give are increasingly heavy, and will continue to be so in the future, John Barton Payne, chairman, has announced.

The two major services of the society—service to war veterans and their dependents, and relief in disasters—show each year a greater number of persons helped by the Red Cross.

Pension legislation passed recently for World War Veterans, and increased allotments to all Spanish-American War Veterans, have given to Chapters and the national society many thousands of additional cases to handle, Judge Payne said.

In the past year help was given in 108 disasters. Ninety of these were in the United States, twelve in foreign possessions and six were in foreign countries.

Health activities of the Red Cross also are being extended, especially in the rural communities where all health authorities agree the greatest need exists. Red Cross, with 794 nurses in its employ, is the greatest employer of public health nurses in rural areas in the United States.

In its campaign against accidental deaths, begun twenty years ago with its life saving and first aid programs, the Red Cross now has adopted an additional program—that of combating the huge toll of life from automobile accidents on the highways.

Expenditures of the Red Cross in the past year were $4,254,796.34, of which $1,208,151.09 was spent in disaster relief, the chairman pointed out.

"The Red Cross depends upon the public for its support, through their memberships enrolled once each year in the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day," Judge Payne said.

"We do not receive any support from the Government, or through other taxation, although as the President of the United States is president of the society, and one-third of its governing members are representatives of U. S. Departments, it ranks as a semi-governmental agency.

"By joining as a member, in the local Red Cross Chapter, once each year, during the annual Roll Call, every citizen will have a part in carrying on this great humanitarian task."

Motor Injuries Treated By Red Cross First Aid

In line with its work for the preservation of life and prevention of accidental death, the American Red Cross has adopted a new program of emergency first aid stations on the highways of the nation, where victims of automobile injuries will be helped.

In the last year 31,000 persons were killed as the result of automobile accidents and more than 1,000,000 were injured. As its contribution to the nation wide safety campaigns of other organizations, the Red Cross will aid through the emergency stations. A number already are in operation by Chapters on such important traffic arteries as the Westchester County, N. Y., park system, the Valley Forge and Gettysburg highways in Pennsylvania, and the White Horse Pike in New Jersey, connecting with Atlantic City.

Saving Mothers and Babies Is Important Red Cross Task

Saving mothers' lives and better babies were important features during the past year of the Public Health Nursing Service of the American Red Cross. About four-fifths of the 794 nurses in the Red Cross work made more than 100,000 prenatal and maternal visits, in addition to assisting doctors in the examination of 1,309,409 school children.

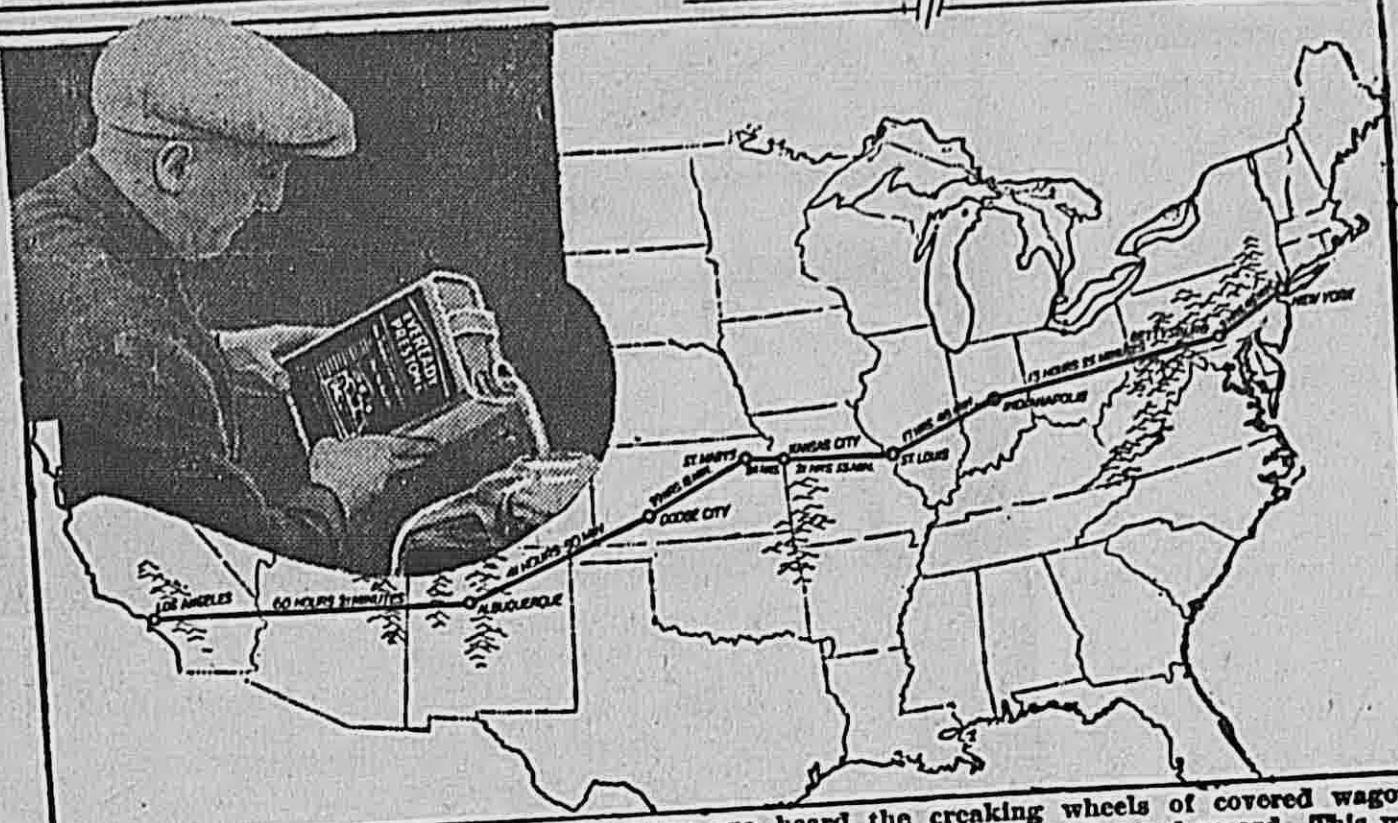

Statistics reveal that two out of three American women who die in maternity cases could be saved if they received proper medical and nursing care. As more than 15,000 women die in the United States each year from various diseases of the maternal state, this means that more than 10,000 of these deaths are preventable.

Comfort Kits Sent 40,000 Service Men by Red Cross

Gay patterned cretonne bags, or comfort kits, containing articles useful and amusing, are sent by the Red Cross to 40,000 soldiers, sailors and Marines, on foreign service, as Christmas remembrances.

The little gift bags are donated and packed by women in Red Cross Chapters all over the country. They are despatched by Army transport in the early autumn in order to reach the foreign ports and posts of the U. S. services in time to be hung on the Christmas trees. Giving the remembrances from home is the outgrowth of a plan adopted by the Red Cross prior to the World War when so many National Guard regiments were on the Mexican border.

Cannon Ball Baker Smashes Coast to Coast Auto Speed Record by Six Hours

Following some of the trails which a century ago heard the creaking wheels of covered wagons, Cannon Ball Baker has chopped more than six hours off the transcontinental speed record. This map shows his route and elapsed time at several points. Insert shows Baker putting on anti-freeze just before his start from Manhattan Island.

Cannon Ball Baker, meteor of the automobile world and holder of more speed and endurance records than he can remember, has done it again.

Using a Stutz automobile he has lowered the transcontinental speed record by hurling his car across the country in the almost unbelievable time of 60 hours and 21 minutes. The previous record was 67 hours, 8 minutes.

Baker is one of the most interesting and colorful personalities in the automobile world. For 24 years he has been living a life of thrills, with death close on his trail more than once as he roared through mud, fog, cloudbursts, desert heat, and zero weather to hang up new records. He has a much maligned woman.

"Lady Luck," says Baker, "is taken part in more than 500 motor contests on track and road, has raced across the continent 101 times, and has driven more than twenty times the distance around the world in every conceivable type of contest.

When Baker is hot on the trail of a new record, he subjects his own body to a strain commensurate with that of his machine. In his latest record breaking run from New York to Los Angeles he snatched a total of thirty minutes sleep on the entire trip. Yet so great is his physical endurance that after a turkish bath and three hours sleep he said he felt "fit as a fiddle."

"No detail is unimportant. I exercise as much care in the choice of an anti-freeze solution for my radiator as I do in the selection of the automobile. On this trip I used a permanent one-shot solution, with the result that this was the first run across the continent in which the radiator cap was not removed.

"Yes, I've had my share of what we call tough luck, but generally it is the result of neglecting what we wrongly consider the unimportant details. In this game there isn't any such animal."

The traditional Turkey (capitalized, with both drumsticks waving triumphantly in the air for Baby's especial benefit) often has a substitute on the tables of those not fortunate enough to feel justified in purchasing one for Thanksgiving Day. A recipe for chicken pie, and for roast goose is given to aid them.

Chicken Pie

Single, draw and clean a four-pound chicken as usual. Disjoint, cut the breast into four pieces, cut the thigh and leg apart. Save the neck, wing tips, heart, gizzard and liver for soup. Put on the rest with enough water to cover and cook two hours.

Add two quarts washed, pared and diced white potatoes. Cook 20 minutes, or until the potatoes are tender. Add 1 tablespoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley and two tablespoons flour mixed with a little cold water. Boil 3 minutes. Pour all into dish, cover with rich pastry. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven.

Pastry

Sift together 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon of salt; rub in very lightly 4 tablespoons shortening; add just enough cold water to make a stiff dough. Roll out on floured board and put over top of pie.

Roast Goose, Bread
and Apple Dressing

Wipe inside with damp cloth, and season with salt and pepper; put in dressing and sew up. Push back skin and cut off neck. In the skin put 2 apples, which have been pared and quartered; tie the skin. Put in pan breastbone up; dust with salt, pepper and flour. Place in hot oven; when browned, baste with 2 cups cold water; turn breast side down and roast 2 hours, basting three or four times with cold water. Ten minutes before serving turn breast side up. Remove fat and make gravy.

Thanksgiving dinner is not quite complete unless a dish of sparkling cranberry sauce graces the table. Mint sauce also adds that final touch.

Cranberry Sauce

1 quart cranberries
2 cups sugar
1 cup water
Put all together into saucepan. Cover until it boils. Remove cover and cook about 10 minutes or until berries have all burst. Pour into mold, chill and serve.

For Cranberry Jelly strain and put into mold and chill.

Mint Sauce

1/4 cup chopped mint leaves
1/2 cup vinegar
1/4 cup water
1/4 cup brown or granulated sugar
Cook all ingredients in saucepan over very slow fire for about one-half hour. Do not allow to boil. Serve hot.

Along with squash, mashed potatoes, gravy, and coffee, or cider, as the basis of the meal, is the pumpkin pie. After baking the pie by the following recipe using more or less spice according to your family's taste, top with sweetened whipped cream.

Pumpkin Pie

2 cups stewed and strained pumpkin or squash.
2 cups rich milk or cream
1 cup brown or granulated sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
2 teaspoons nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon allspice
Mix pumpkin with milk, sugar, beaten eggs, salt and spices, and beat 2 minutes. Pour into pie tin which has been lined with pastry. Place in hot oven for fifteen minutes, then reduce heat and bake 45 minutes in moderate oven.

How to play Bridge
AUCTION or CONTRACT
by Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 3

Once in a great while it is possible to find a hand that combines the good points both of bidding and of play. Many hands are examples of good bidding or of good play but seldom of both, so that the following hand can be regarded as unusual:

Example Hand

Hearts — A, 10, 2	Hearts — J, 7, 6, 4
Clubs — J, 6, 3	Clubs — A, K, 10, 9, 7
Diamonds — Q, 9, 6, 4	Diamonds — 7, 3, 2
Spades — K, 8, 5	Spades — A

: A	Y	B	:	Hearts — 9, 3
: Z				Clubs — Q, 5
				Diamonds — A, K, J, 8, 5
				Spades — J, 7, 4, 2

Hearts — K, Q, 8, 5
Clubs — 8, 4, 2
Diamonds — 10
Spades — Q, 10, 9, 6, 3

AUCTION BIDDING:

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and passed; A passed; Y bid one club; B bid one diamond; Z bid one spade; A bid two diamonds; and Y and B passed. Here is where Z had his opportunity and took advantage of it by bidding two hearts. He was "feeling for his partner's suit" and was rewarded by finding Y with strong support. All passed and A was confronted with the question as to his proper lead. The conventional lead would be the four of diamonds in answer to his partner's bid, but such a lead will lose the game for A. When your opponent has bid two suits, it usually is a wise move to open trumps.

The proper lead with A's hand is undoubtedly the ace of hearts, followed by the deuce. Z should win with the queen and lead a low club, finessing the nine in Y's hand. B is thus forced in the lead with the queen of clubs. This play by Z is a very clever one, for B has no more trumps and the only way he can save game is by underleading the ace king of diamonds.

CONTRACT BIDDING:

Z, as dealer, should pass. A should pass and Y should bid one club. B should bid one diamond, Z one spade and A two diamonds. Y and B should pass, but Z should bid two hearts, just as he did in the auction bidding. A pass and Y is justified in bidding two hearts. This will be made, of course, unless the defense is perfect, as already pointed out.

Here is an example of end play that comes up very frequently:

End Play Example

Hearts — none	Hearts — none
Clubs — none	Clubs — none
Diamonds — none	Diamonds — none
Spades — A, Q, J	Spades — A, Q, J

: A	Y	B	:	Hearts — none
: Z				Clubs — none
				Diamonds — J
				Spades — K, 10

Hearts — none
Clubs — 7
Diamonds — 8
Spades — 4

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win all of the tricks against any defense?

This little end play is a simple example of the power of the discard. Z should lead the seven of clubs. Z should discard the deuce and Y the jack of spades. But can poor B discard? If he discards the jack of diamonds, Z's eight of diamonds and Y's ace of spades will win the next two tricks. If Y's spades are good, so that once again Y Z must win the next two tricks. This forcing the discard of winning tricks from a player's hand is called the "squeeze," and is a play loved by the experts. Try to understand and apply this play and you will get just as much fun out of it as the expert.

Newport News Names
Nutritive Novelty

Now that the winter round of bridge parties and social activities has commenced again, any suggestion for something new is always welcomed by the hostess. Doesn't it give you a glow of "smugness" when you discover something never before served in your circle? The first one to take this hint will have the jump on her neighbors.

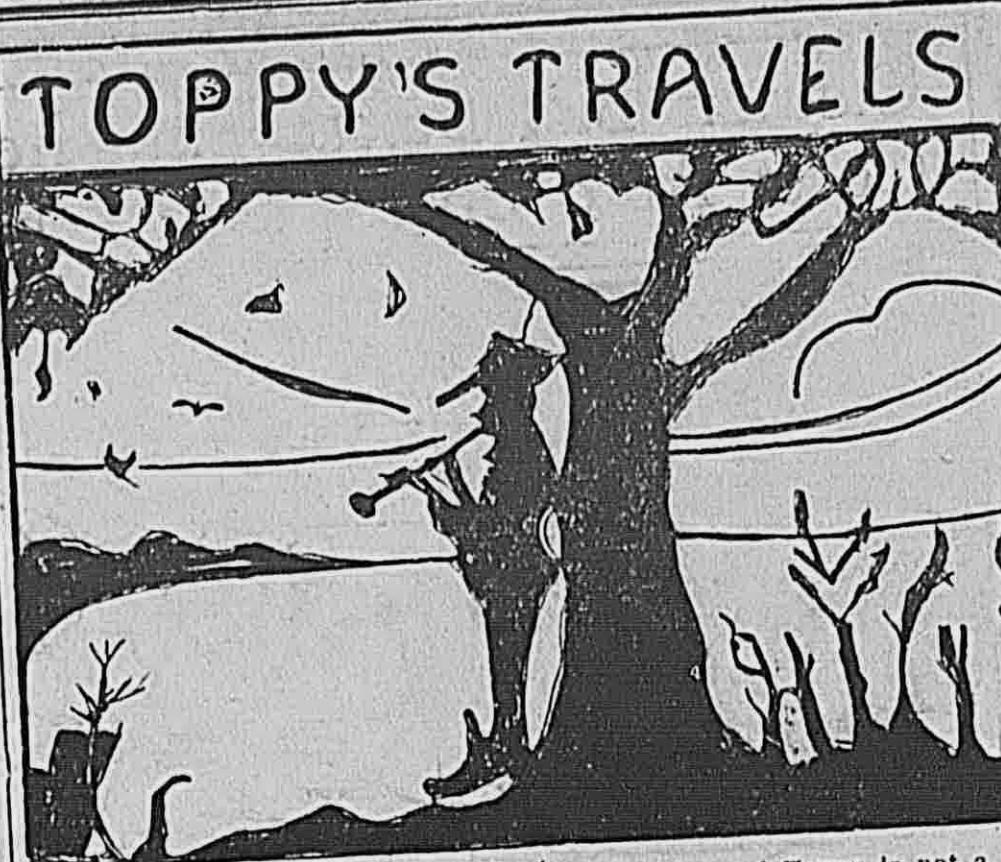

From exclusive Newport comes this suggestion for an excellent party dish or for a fancy dessert for home consumption. In the midst of this resort they serve the concoctions on paper doilies—and so may you! Simply bake a recipe of cup cakes, and when cold, cut a piece from the center to resemble an angle-cake pan. Then fill the center with your favorite jelly, frost the top and sides with jelly and roll in shredded fresh keeping coconut. Top with whipped cream—and sit back for the compliments!

DON'T CRY "JACKIE,

But Remove Candy, Egg or Gum Stains by These Treatments

It is natural for children to be constantly "up to something," but the result is also just as natural—they are bound to come to grief some times in one way or another. One of the commonest outcomes of such activity is that of spilling or dropping staining food or liquid upon their clothing. Children are not alone in that regrettable occurrence, but it is with the removal of such stains as they are most likely to acquire that is being discussed today.

Candy stains are due to the sugar syrup and any coloring matter or chocolate which may be present. If the material is washable ordinary laundering is sufficient to remove the stain. In other cases sponge with clear warm water, but if dye or chocolate stains still remain make hydrogen peroxide slightly alkaline with ammonia solution, and use particularly on white silk or wool. Soak in solution, and then rinse thoroughly. Hydrogen peroxide may be bought under trade names in powder form. If this is used, moisten powder and work into stain.

Chewing gum, that delight of kids and nightmare of teachers and mothers, usually contains a gum known as chicle which has been boiled down, flavored and sweetened. If the material is washable, soften the gum stain with egg white and then wash. Treatment alternately with carbon tetrachloride and water is often effective.

Egg stains should never be removed with hot water as that coagulates the albumen. If material is washable, wash in cold water, as in ordinary laundering; if unwashable, sponge with cold water and then apply one of the grease solvents—ether, wood or denatured alcohol, benzol, acetone, gasoline, chloroform, and carbon tetrachloride. If possible use out of doors.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Renewing a childish attachment, Ernestine Brice, wife of a wealthy Chicago family, is tremendously attracted by Will Todd, youthful newspaper artist, son of a not particularly well-to-do carpenter. Her father, Lillian, more of the conventional type, and a man of attitude, their father, would take toward his daughter's marriage to an impetuous youth, urges Ernestine to end the affair, but the latter, capable of a passionate attachment, and realizing that in Will Todd she has found her affinity, refuses.

CHAPTER II—The love-making progresses swiftly, and finally, largely because of Ernestine's urging, they marry. A "runaway" marriage, Brice's land is infuriated but helpless. Ernestine being of age, and after a brief scene with her husband and leaves her parents' home, Loring Hamilton, wealthy young lawyer, long Lillian's and, with her consent, to his wife.

CHAPTER III—The bride, which is spent at Will's home, the next day they begin their married life in a single room in a humble neighborhood.

Ernestine realizes the difference her marriage has made in her social sphere, but, secure in her love, faces the future bravely.

CHAPTER IV—John Poole, Will's best friend, successful though dissipated artist, gives a birthday party for Ernestine. Ruby Pastano's homely deport on the fringe of the underworld. Pastano, notorious as a bootlegger and gang leader, for Ernestine by his criticism of Will for bringing his wife to such a place. Applying to Will to take her, he delegates the task to a friend, Tommy Tucker, explaining that he must see Poole, who has drunk too much, to his house. Ernestine is hurt and indignant. The situation is saved by the appearance of Loring and Lillian, who had heard of her whereabouts and with whom she leaves the party.

CHAPTER V—Reproaching him for leaving her "unprotected" in his room for Poole, Will, taken by the attitude which awakes Ernestine to the realities of her new life. She is conscious of reaching motherhood, and in anticipation of the event opens a small savings account.

CHAPTER VI—Will's father dies suddenly, a suggestion that the funeral be held from the Brice home, the Todd house being small enough with refusal, to Ernestine, deep sorrow, though her father attends the obsequies. He offers Ernestine financial aid, which she declines, in loyalty to Will. Pastano brings his wife on a visit of consolation, and Ernestine is touched by their friendliness. The shock of her husband's death leaves the older Mrs. Todd a hopeless invalid. Lillian and Loring are married.

"I've got to go, because papa is bringing a new stone-merger man home with him for dinner. I am going to put rock powder in the coffee!" Mamma kissed them all goodby, with tears in her eyes.

Ernestine looked at Lillian and realized with a shock how changed she was in the six months since her marriage. She was satisfied with her lot and herself. There was almost danger—a challenge to fate in her complacency. She was gentle and kind to Ernestine, but subtly patronizing. It was especially noticeable since mamma had gone, for mamma kept Lillian in check.

But Lillian was changed. Loring was startlingly so. He seemed to Ernestine bigger, handsomer. His blond strength was now set in a robust vitality which was very different from Will's volatile excitability. He kissed Ernestine affectionately, told her she looked well and admired the baby.

Mamma had trained a maid for Lillian, and she served in silent competence an excellent dinner, but the bright vivacity of the afternoon was gone. The interwoven volatility of the three women, their constant interruption of one another, their exclamations and cries of astonishment or sympathy, now disappeared, and Loring talked and the two girls listened.

He assumed Ernestine knew all about their European journey. Over there, he said, he had got a new slant on things. It was a good thing for a man to get away from his desk for a while. Now he had decided to forego the idea of the bench and go in for crime. They laughed and he twinkled at left her in Erie street, disrupted, unhappy and at odds with Will.

She was awake when Will came in, and she fixed a light supper for him and told him all that Loring had said, with some small editing.

"He's a capable lawyer, I suppose," Will said. "And if Ruby wants to give him work to do, and Loring wants to do it, what's the difference? He's not the only lawyer that would like to get his fingers into Pastano's pie. But anyhow, I've got something to tell you. Underwood's going to New York, and Tucker's to be head of the art room."

Ernestine felt a cruel shock of disappointment. She knew Will had expected this—had hoped for the job himself.

"But Tucker's so young," she protested.

"It isn't that—he's capable. I'm glad he got it," said Will.

Ernestine thought of what this job might have meant. The pay was nearly double. They could have rented this house and, with the rent and the increase, moved into an apartment in Ravenswood.

"Oh," she cried to Will, aghast at her own mental processes. "It's so hard not to consider money. Not to want it! Not to care! I don't want to be greedy and grabby. I don't want to crave success. But I am—I do. Isn't it horrible?"

He looked at her with some humor. "You aren't greedy and grabby, sweetheart. And as for success, there's a legitimate way to want that—not for the money but for the work. I don't think this has any effect on my future. It's really an executive position, and I'm a solitary worker. I'd be no good at bossing. It's an editorial job, and Tommy has an editorial slant on things. He's fitted for it."

A few days later he came home with a shining face. "I'm to be Poole's assistant," he said. "Do you realize what this means to me? It's worth ten thousand in cash—to work under him. If a person went to him and offered a hundred dollars a lesson, he wouldn't teach him to draw, but would curse him out of the office. And he'll teach me, and I'll be paid for it. It means no more night work. Ten till six. I do detail in the art room until Mr. Poole comes in and then I work for him all afternoon. He does a copy for a New York syndicate every day, and there's always work to plan ahead and sketches to lay out. He's been boozey a lot lately, and I think McDermott feels that if he has somebody to help him he'll keep ahead and not run so close to publication. Wiston didn't want to send me in there—but Poole insisted on me." He sighed with happiness and added, as an afterthought, "It means another five-dollar raise—maybe more later."

He was so thrilled and excited that Ernestine commanded her heart to yield its disappointment over Tommy's job. But she could not see any real future for Will in losing himself in the great man's shadow.

"I don't want mamma to know," Ernestine said. "I'm afraid she won't go to Europe. Besides, you know what a fuss there'll be."

"Then don't tell her," said Will in his simplicity. "It isn't really any one else's business, is it?"

Ernestine sighed. "You don't know how they'll take it. Of course it's their business—they'll have enough to say. And I feel embarrassed with mamma. She'll wonder why I didn't tell her."

Will kissed her cheerfully and went away to his beloved job. He was radiantly happy and his happiness seemed to affect her inversely. Every day was an adventure to him.

"Tommy gives me plenty to do," he admitted one evening. "Tommy's a good boss. He keeps us all hopping, and gives every fellow the kind of job he can do best. But it's the work for Mr. Poole that makes up for any chores. Ernestine, I tell you he is a great man. He comes in there—sometimes he doesn't know whether he's eaten or not, but as soon as he gets in that little office, which fits around him like a glove about a hand, he begins to function—the way his mind works is always a surprise. What's the matter, honey? You're not eating."

Ernestine leaned on her hand and her eyes filled with tears.

"I hate to have mamma go away now," she said.

Will's methods were infantile.

"Then tell her. You know she'd stay in a minute."

"Go on talking about the office, please—so I can think."

Will laughed. He took a half-dollar from his pocket and spun it on the kitchen cloth.

"I won me fifty cents, shooting craps at the office," he said. "We can go to the movies."

Ernestine plucked the fifty-cent piece from his fingers, and he made a pretense at regaining it.

"Now my thinking process is entirely disrupted," she told him. "I thought Mr. Wiston was going to fire the next person he caught shooting craps in office hours."

"I don't believe he'll do it," said Will comfortably, and Ernestine did not believe it either. The men were always matching pennies or rolling dice or making up pools.

Will pushed back his chair, came around and cupped Ernestine's face in his hands, kissed her cheeks and lips and pressed her eyelashes down hard with his caresses.

"Don't be blue, honey—don't worry," he bade her cheerfully. "You're the prettiest, sweetest woman in the world. It's natural for us to have a family. You're not going to be unhappy about the new baby, are you, Ernestine? It's the way of love."

CHEVROLET'S NEW MODEL SHOWN AT LOCAL SALESROOM

Announcing New Car Is Tremendous Job Official Says

AUTOMOBILE AFFECTS OTHER INDUSTRIES

ANTIOCH BOYS TO REPRESENT ILL. AT NAT'L POULTRY SHOW

The Antioch Poultry Judging team has been selected to represent Illinois at the Chicago Coliseum National Poultry show Dec. 1st, according to a telegram received by C. L. Kutil from the State 4-H Club Leader yesterday.

The team is composed of Harry Johnson, William Yopp and Ward Wilton, who have shown unusual ability in this line. They will run up against stiff competition, particularly from those states, such as Texas and Oklahoma, which are known especially as poultry states.

Announcing New Car Is Tremendous Job Official Says

Thousands of people who thronged showrooms throughout the nation last week to get their first view of the new 1931 Chevrolet commented particularly upon the features new to the low priced field achieved in the current line of Fisher-Chevrolet bodies. The new model was seen here Saturday at the Whitmore Chevrolet salesroom.

First remarked among the new features are the increased size and roominess made possible by the longer wheelbase, while numerous other changes not obvious to the eye combine to make the bodies stronger, more rigid, and as completely squeak-proof as human ingenuity can devise.

Auto Helps Other Industries

The extent to which the industrial structure of America leans upon the automobile, was vividly illustrated following the placing of an order incidental to announcing Chevrolet's new 1931 models.

The order called for 171,846 feet of material, or a ribbon of canvas 33 miles long and 36 inches wide, to be made up into banners for dealer's showroom displays and for signs to be used in sales meetings being held throughout the country.

Less than 5,000 yards of the material were available in Detroit. Due to low inventories resulting from curtailed operations this year, a search of wholesalers, bleachers and mills in strategic parts of the country, revealed a supply of white canvas on hand still 20,000 yards short of filling the order.

To meet the demand within the classified time, a mill in South Carolina which had lain idle got into production on a 24-hour day schedule.

Mills in other parts of the country were put to work overtime. To produce the finished banners and drops, two plants manned with artists, sign painters, carpenters and laborers had to work on three eight-hour shifts a day.

"This one order resulted in the opening of three plants not then in production, and the employment of hundreds of men," explained H. J. Klingler, vice-president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, who directed the purchase.

"Yet this order was not measurably larger than others we have placed from time to time for similar materials to meet the needs of our dealers.

"What happened in this instance—in the usual activity brought about through placing an order only for materials to announce the new car—may be taken as a pretty good indication of how all industry benefits through the automobile. Purchase of a car means work for the cotton picker and mill hand, the steel miner and worker, the lumberman—in fact all those people employed in the production or preparation of the larger number of raw materials which go into the building of the finished automobile."
